

QUALITY POLICY STATEMENT

OUR BUSINESS

Founded in 1983, Anglo Printers Ltd is a Litho and Digital printing operation based in the historic town of Drogheda in County Louth. The business has been driven by a technological revolution over the past few years, and our young, dynamic and focused print management team is among the front-runners in the Irish Print Industry.

In the years since its inception, Anglo Printers has grown from a humble organisation to one of the leading players in commercial printing in Ireland. The core business of the firm centres on commercial lithographic and digital printing, from single colour to full colour and on a vast and formidable range of printing presses, and production engines.

Our Policy Manual and associated procedures describe how the Anglo Printers processes are designed to ensure that customers' requirements are recognised and that consistent and uniform control of these requirements is adequately maintained in accordance with applicable statutory and regulatory requirements.
